Numb. 304 5

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From October 3. to October 10. 1734.

From the Camp before Dantzick, July 10.

BY all Reports here the Primate will be conducted from Elbing, to Petersburgh, and the Poliſh Noblemen from hence to reſide there till the Troubles of the Kingdom are aſſuaged. Beſides the Sum of Money which the City of Dantzick agreed to pay Count Munich, his Excellency inſiſted on a Million of Crowns more by way of Mulct, for letting King Staniſlaus eſcape; but he has been ſince prevail'd with to remit this laſt Demand. A general Amneſty has been granted the City, with Exception to a few Perſons, who are left to the Mercy of King Auguſtus.

Before King Staniſlaus made his Eſcape out of Dantzick, his Majeſty wrote the following Letters, and left them the Marquis de Monti, to be delivered as ſoon as he was gone.

STANISLAUS, King, to the Primate and Grandees of Poland.

FROM the cruel Pangs I feel in the Thought of leaving you, my dear and truſty Friends, you may frame a juſt Idea of the afflicted ſtate of my Soul in theſe bitter Moments: Nor is this painful Reſolution taken but from the Prevalence of your ſage Perſuaſion, and an Aſſurance that the Sacrifice of my Perſon could be of no Advantage to you.

I ſend you this parting Embrace, and, beginning with the Primate, claſp you all to my throbbing Heart, conjuring you, for your own ſakes, and by all that I hold dear, to unite more than ever in advancing the Intereſt of your poor Country, whoſe ſole Support reſts in your beloved ſelves. Alas! The Tears which obliterate my Writing compel me to ſtop: 'Twere more eaſy to read the tender Expreſſions grav'd in my Heart, could you but ſee it. Let me once again embrace you, who am yours with Heart and Soul, and more than Words can declare.

To my good City of DANTZICK.

AFTER having been held here a long time by the Attraction of your unparallelled Fidelity, I am preparing to depart in the Moment I can no longer poſſeſs you. I carry with me the poignant Anguiſh of your Sufferings, and ſuch a ſenſe of my Obligations to you, that I will omit neither Time or Place to acknowledge the one, and convince you how far I am affected with the other. I wiſh you all the Happineſs you deſerve, which would in ſome Meaſure aſſuage my Concern in being torn from your Arms. I am at all Times, and in every Place, your Affectionate King,

STANISLAUS.

Heidelburgh, July 17. Great part of Prince Eugene's Army was under Arms the whole Night of the 11th Inſtant, upon Advice that the French deſign'd them a Viſit, but nothing came on't. The preſent Inundation of the Rhine is greater than was ever known, it has forc'd itſelf into the French Camp, born down their Works, and carried away their Bridges. The Marſh round Philipsburg looks like a Sea: the Horn Work is more than half under Water, and it muſt be own'd the French Troops ſhew on this Occaſion a Spirit and a Patience beyond Example. Theſe Inconveniencies which one would think muſt cool their Courage, raiſe a new Ardour, and you ſee them take the Water as eagerly as if it was their Element. The noxious Fogs which the Heat exhales from the adjacent Marſhes, has thrown the greateſt part of the Officers into Fevers, in ſhort, the whole Army ſtruggles with uncommon Difficulties. That of Prince Eugene is in a far better Situation, being Encamp'd on a riſing Ground: The General's Head Quarters are at Rouſtheim, the Center of the Camp fronts the Village of Knautenheim, where the French have a Bridge. On the 14th his Highneſs caus'd a party of his Troops to Advance within Musket-ſhot of the Enemy's Lines, and order'd a large quantity of Faſcines and Hurdles to be carried thither, it order to fill up their Ditches, and thereby expoſe their Troops to his Attacks; but the Marſhal d'Asfeldt got wind of the Deſign, and drawing up his Men, let fly at the Imperialiſts with ſuch Vigour, that they were forced to retire. As this Project fail'd, Prince Eugene ſince form'd another; He had a mind to take advantage of the ſeparation of the Quarters of the French

Army,

Army, in order to cut off their Communication; but the Duke de Noailles preceiving his drift, ſtept in with ſeveral Regiments of Swiſs, and prevented the Succeſs of Scheme.

Frankfort, July 18. N. S. On Friday Morning about Six o'Clock, the Old Regiment of Foot of Wirtemberg marched thro' this City for the Imperial Army: It conſiſts of 2100 brave, old, ſtout Soldiers. On Saturday the Prince of Orange went Poſt through, being Saluted with our Cannon. On the 14th, the Imperialiſts attacked the French at the Village of Knautenheim, near which Place they had their uppermoſt Bridge, and put them to Flight. The French Huſſars that came over the Rhine near Neckerau, were entirely defeated and cut to pieces by the Imperialiſts, who only ſaved the Lives of two of the Officers, whom they preſented to Prince Eugene, and he gave them 30 Rixdollars for their Pains. The 1200 Caroline Huſſars arrived in the Army on Wedneſday: The Officers are cloathed in Tyger-Skins adorned with the Sun, Moon and Stars in Maſſy Gold, and their Caps are ſtudded, as it were with Pearl. The Subalterns are dreſſed in Wolves and Bears Skins trimmed with Gold. When they were marching into their Quarters, the French fired ſome Cannon Shot at them from their Entrenchments, but to no purpoſe. Our Troops have taken near Knautenheim, ſome Veſſels loaded with Proviſions from Strasburg for the French Army; and they will endeavour to ruin the Bridge there, to deprive the Enemy of the Means of Subſiſtance. It is ſaid the King of Pruſſia will quit the Army this Day and go to Wezel; and that his Majeſty will afterwards appear upon the Moſelle at the Head of a Body of Troops. Yeſterday there was not a Shot fired to or from Philipsburgh. (A ſhrewd Sign of a Capitulation.)

Heidleburg, July 18. N. S. The whole Night between the 14th and 15th was ſpent in firing both by the Beſiegers and the Beſieged in ſuch a terrible manner, that the Writer of this Letter, who was an Eye-Witneſs of it, told no leſs than 400 Cannon Shot in an Hour and a half, beſides a prodigious number of Bombs, Grenades, Carcaſſes, and the inceſſant Fire of ſmall Arms. The Beſiegers then ſtormed the Crown Work, but were repulſed with great loſs. The next Night (25th) they doubled their Fury, and have ſince as we hear, taken that Work, after a long and brave Defence, of the Beſieged, and a terrible Slaughter of the French. The reſt of the Outworks of Phillipsburg will probably be able to hold out a Week. Mean time, all the neceſſary Diſpoſitions are making for it's Relief. On the Ground where the Germans are poſted, which is but two Musket ſhot from the French Entrenchments, they had already three Batteries compleatly finiſhed the 15th in the Afternoon, in order, under Cover of them, to draw yet nearer the Enemy, which, I hear, was done yeſterday. On the 16th the Imperialiſts took a little Iſland in the Rhine, of which the French were in Poſſeſſion, whereby they are Maſters of the Paſſage of the Rhine, above and below. The Imperial Bridges of Boats are alſo ready at Knautenheim upon the Rhine, to be laid down at an Hours Warning, which heightens our Expectations of a Battle.

Cologn, July 20. N. S. We have Advice from the Imperial Army, that Prince George of Heſſe Caſſel has taken a Redoubt about a Musket Shot from the Entrenchments and diſlodged the Enemy from thence; and that the Duke of Wirtemberg has like likewiſe driven the French from the Village of Ruſheim near Knautenheim. This laſt Conqueſt is ſaid to be of very great Advantage, that Village having kept open the Communication between the French Camp and their Places along the Rhine, as Fort Lewis, Strasburg, &c. Wherefore as that Communication is now cut off, the French will doubtleſs endeavour to recover the ſaid Poſt; but if they do, they muſt pay for it, 12 Battalions being ordered to maintain it.

Heidelburgh, July 20. N. S. We are told that Prince Eugene will certainly attack the French Entrenchments the 20th or 21ſt Inſtant; but it is thought the ſame depends ve-much upon the Queſtion, whether General Wutgenau, who commands in Philipsburg, is in a Condition to hold out any time longer; according to which, the ſaid Prince will regulate his Attack, being willing to lie by them, cannonading, and gauling them as much as poſſibly he can, before he ſtrikes his Stroke.

Hague, July 23. N. S. The Armies on the Rhine according the laſt Advices were ſtill in the ſame Scituation; on the 14th Inſtant the French before Philipsburg made themſelves Maſters of the Crown-Work, and if Prince Eugene does not find Means to relieve the Town, it will ſoon be in their Hands; ſome Letters ſay that he deſigned to attack their Entrenchments on the 21ſt Inſtant. We had this Morning the News of her moſt Chriſtian Majeſty's being brought to Bed of a Prince.

Our laſt Advices from the Rhine import, That the Imperialiſts have made themſelves Maſters of an Iſland in the Rhine, which may prove a very advantageous Poſt to them; that they have found means to ſink a grand Convoy of Proviſions going to the French Army, who wanted it ſo much that the ſaid Loſs has thrown them into a moſt terrible perplexity.

The ſame Letters add, That Prince Eugene has had ſeveral ſerious Conferences with the King of Pruſſia; and that it is generally believ'd that his Highneſs has engag'd his Pruſſian Majeſty to give Proofs of his Zeal for the Emperor and Empire, by forming an Army of 30,000 Men upon the Moſelle, which ſome even pretend to ſay, the ſaid King will Command in Perſon, having under him the Prince of Anhalt Deſſau. The Poſt of Rouſſen, which the Imperialiſts took from the French, was guarded by 400 Dragoons, who being ſurprized by the Enemy took to flight with great Precipitation. The Prince of Conti commanded the French Troops at the taking the Crown-Work of Philipsburg, and planted the Standard of France upon the ſaid Work with his own Hands.

London, July 15. On the 12th of March laſt in the Morning, the True Blue of Liverpool, Charles Danvers Maſter, being at Setteracrue on the Coaſt of Africa, part of the Ship's Crew went aſhore in the Ship's Boat upon Buſineſs, and thoſe on Board not being ſufficiently on Guard, having 49 Negroes with them, who roſe, and ſoon overpowered them, and getting Poſſeſſion of their Powder and Arms, the Ship's Crew with difficulty eſcaped in the Yaul, except their Cooper, who was ſick in his Cabbin, ſoon after which the Negroes, by ſome Miſmanagement ſet Fire to the Powder, and with the Ship were tore to Pieces.

We hear that a Marriage is near concluded between the Duke of Holſtein Gottorp and her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Amelia, his Majeſty's ſecond Daughter.

July 19. Private Letters from the Imperial Camp on the Rhine, take notice of a remarkable intercourſe of Civility which paſs'd lately between his Highneſs Prince Eugene and the Marſhal d'Aſfeldt the French General: The Rhine it ſeems having been thick and muddy from the exceſſive Floods, and the Imperialiſts being in Poſſeſſion of the ſole Springs that are thereabouts, the Marſhal ſent a Country Boy to their Camp to deſire a Pitcher of Spring Water: The Boy had not paſs'd the firſt Guard before he was ſeized on Suſpicion of being a Spy; but making loud Aſſertions of his Innocence, the noiſe of the Accident reach'd Prince Eugene, who caus'd the Boy to be brought immediately before him, and being ſoon convinc'd of his Simplicity, ſent him back with a double Supply of what he wanted, under a ſafe Guard to the very Lines of the Enemy. The Marſhal d'Aſfeldt was ſtruck with Prince Eugene's Politeneſs, and immediately ſent his Highneſs two Mules laden with Burgundy, who accepted the ſame, and return'd the Mules to the Marſhal, with a Preſent of Tockay.

On Tueſday laſt Mrs. St. George, a celebrated Beauty, was Married to an elderly Gentleman of a good Fortune.

Extract of a Letter from an Engliſh Merchant at Venice, dated the 9th Inſtant, N. S.

" No doubt but e're this reaches you, you'l have Ad-
" vice of the French having totally defeated the Germans
" in theſe Parts.

Other Letters of the ſame dates, from the ſame Place, ſay, That ſince the Action near Parma, the Germans ſeem diſpirited and in the utmoſt Confuſion; and being under no order, and without a General, they retired from Place to Place in a forlorn manner; and as one Expreſſes himſelf, as a Flock of Sheep before a Lion.

His Highneſs the Prince of Orange received the greateſt marks of Honour and Diſtinction in all the Towns he had occaſion to paſs, in his Way from Holland to the Imperial Camp. He arriv'd at Frankfort on Friday 7-night, and was immediately complimented by a Deputation from the Magiſtrates, and afterwards with the Wine of Honour, as it is call'd, which they preſent to none but Sovereign Princes of the higheſt Rank.

On Tueſday Morning laſt when the Royal Family took the Air about Hampſtead, &c. their Majeſties ordered 8 Guineas to be given among the Brick and Haymakers that were labouring in the Fields.

Married, This Morning at Oxford Chappel, his Grace the Duke of Portland, to Lady Margaret Harley, endowed with many valuable Qualities, and a Fortune of 50,000 l.

By a Letter from Cork dated Friday June 20, we are inform'd, that a great Shower of Blood fell on Thurſday near that City.

Hamburg, July 23. Some Advices from Bremen inſinuate as if King Staniſlaus paſs'd through there on the 17th on his Way to France.

Hague, July 16. N. S. The Current of Advices from Germany ſay, that Prince Eugene's Army lies incamped in the Shape of a Bow, and that the Rhine makes the String; but then there is a greater and leſſer Bow, for the French form an Arch within Prince Eugene's Arch, and have taken all the Precautions in their Power not to be ſquezed by their new Neighbours. Their Entrenchments are allowed on all Hands to guarded, as well as contrived in the beſt manner; and the innumerable Wells or Pits they have ſunk in their Rear, between their Trenches and the Imperial Army, make the Ground impracticable for the Horſe, and indeed for the Foot, till they are fill'd up. Of this Prince Eugene is very ſenſible, and has therefore provided no leſs than 100,000 Faſcines, and a proportionable Number of Hurdles for that Purpoſe. The Event will ſpeedily ſhew the Truth or Falſhood of theſe Accounts, for Philipsburg is unqueſtionably upon the Point of being taken or relieved.

It is certain that King Staniſlaus has made his Eſcape, ſince he is arrived at Marienwerder in Brandenburg Pruſſia, diſguiſed in the Habit of a poor Peaſant. Hither he was brought in a Waggon, ſo pinch'd with Hunger and Thirſt, that he was forced to make himſelf known to the Pruſſian Officer, to prevent ſinking under them. To this Condition is reduced a King, Father to the Queen of France, and Father-in-Law to Lewis the XV. for whoſe ſake it is given out, a War was undertaken, which coſts ſo much Blood and Treaſure, and has put the beſt Families in France and Germany in Mourning, not to mention the utter Devaſtation and Ruin of Poland and Lithuania.

Paris, July 17. It is plain our Court dropt the Support of the Affairs of Poland and the Dantzickers, which appear deſperate on Staniſlaus's Side, who we are aſſured, is retired from Dantzick, and on the Road hither incognito. We are well pleaſed with the Capitulation of the three Regiments ſent to Dantzick; but cannot help criticizing the Conduct of thoſe, who have been the Occaſion of this expenſive Affair's turning out ſo bad, which in the Beginning was ſo Proſperous: For we are ſtill obliged to indemnify the People of Dantzick, whatever it has or ſhall coſt them, the King having entered into Engagements with the Dantzickers ſo to do, who have ſacrificed themſelves for King Staniſlaus with a Bravery and Generoſity above all Commendation. The two Queens are under a great deal of Concern for the ill Succeſs of their Efforts, which might have been prevented, if ſome People had thought fit; but in ſhort, they dropt the Pretence, to purſue the Real Object.

Upper Rhine, July 20. The Garriſon of Philipsburg are to march out with all military Honours, ſix Pieces of Cannon, four Mortars, and ſome covered Waggons, to be conducted To-morrow to Mentz, whither the Sick and Wounded are likewiſe to be carried by Water. Yeſterday the Count de Belleiſle took Poſſeſſion of Philipsburg.

Berlin, July 20 We have Advice, that King Auguſtus arrived Yeſterday Morning in the Convent of Oliva near Dantzick.

Rome, July 1. The 29th paſt, being the Feaſt of St. Peter, the Pope went in his Chair to the Church of the Vatican, where having aſſiſted at Veſpers, his Holineſs received the Hackney and the Ordinary Tribute for the Kingdom of Naples, which were preſented to him in the Name of the Emperor, by the Prince de Santa Croce; and during the Ceremony, the Miniſter of Spain, in the Name of the King of Naples, delivered into the Apoſtolick Chamber a Bill of the Bank of the Holy Ghoſt, for the Tribute of that Kingdom, proteſting at the ſame Time againſt the Preſentatio of the Tribute in the Name of the Emperor. The old Fellow is not fit to be Pope, if he returns a Penny of the Money.

July 14. On Thurſday laſt His Majeſty in Council was pleaſed to order, that the Parliament which ſtands prorogued to Tueſday the Sixteenth Inſtant, ſhould be farther prorogued to Tueſday the Thirteenth Day of Auguſt next. And that the Convocations of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, which ſtand prorogued to Friday the Nineteenth Inſtant, ſhould be further prorogued to Friday the Sixteenth Day of Auguſt next.

We hear that four Men of War, from 50 to 20 Guns, will ſhortly be ordered to ſail for the Weſt-Indies.

July 20. Private Letters from Paris, dated the 24th Inſt. N. S. at Night ſay, that the Marſhal d'Aſfelt was about to ſend a Detachment from the Camp near Philipsburg to chaſtiſe the City of Frankfort, becauſe the Magiſtrates had ſhewn an entire Diſregard to two Summons's from the late Marſhal Berwick, requiring them to ſend their Deputies to ſettle the Contributions they are to pay to the French Army, and the rather, becauſe their Diſobedience had in a great Meaſure proceeded from the Encouragement given them by Prince Eugene, who had intimated mated the Hopes he was in of being able to ſuccour Philipsburg, and diſſipate their Fears.

July 22. On Saturday James Oglethorpe, Eſq; Member of Parliament for Haſlemere in Surrey, waited on His Majeſty with ſeveral Charts and curious Drawings relating to the new Settlement of Georgia, with which His Majeſty ſeem'd highly pleaſed.

Aug. 6. From the Upper-Rhine, That the French Army has left the Neighbourhood of Worms, and encamped at Anerſheim and Gunderſheim, 'tis believed they will approach nearer Mentz, but it is queſtioned whether they will undertake the Siege of that Place, becauſe Prince Eugene will be near at hand to ſuccour it; however, the Inhabitants of the open Country are flying with their beſt Effects.

That Prince Eugene is arrived with his Army at Meerfield, three Leagues and a half from Frankfort, and three from Mentz, and will paſs the Main at Slingenheim: That Marſhal d'Aſfeldt is encamped near Oppenheim, where he is to paſs the Rhine, and 'tis ſaid has received Orders to give Prince Eugene Battle, in Expectation whereof, 'tis ſaid, the King of Pruſſia will continue in the Imperial Army.

Some other Accounts mention, that the Marſhal de Noailles is in full march with 30,000 Men to execute an important Enterprize above Philipsburg.
